1887OFA 2 Fiscal of Note 2 State Impact:

None Municipal Impact:

None Explanation The bill extends the statute of limitations for a personal injury lawsuit for fraud in providing fertility care or treatment, resulting in no fiscal impact to the state as it concerns only private parties.

The court system disposes of over 250,000 cases annually and any increase in the number of cases is not anticipated to be great enough to need additional resources.

SUMMARY This bill extends the statute of limitations for a personal injury lawsuit for fraud in providing fertility care or treatment to the 51st birthday of the minor affected by the fraud.

Under existing law, the statute of limitations for civil torts is generally three years.

Under the bill, this fraud is knowingly performing assisted reproductive treatment while using human reproductive material from anyone other than the one the patient consented to in writing.

This includes if the health care provider, or anyone else who handles the material in a health care setting, knowingly uses their own material without consent.

Under the bill, "human reproductive material" is sperm, ovum, or a human organism at any developmental stage from fertilized ovum to embryo.

"Assisted reproductive treatment" includes intrauterine or intracervical insemination;

in vitro fertilization and embryo transfer;

egg, sperm, or embryo donation;

or related clinical procedures designed to cause pregnancy other than through sexual intercourse.
